Strategies for organizing learning for diverse learners -

Remedial Teaching

Students who have temporarily fallen behind in their studies or otherwise need short-term support in their learning have the right to get remedial teacher.

Remedial teaching should be started immediately when the difficulties in learning or school attendance have been noticed, so that the students would not stay behind permanently in their studies.

Remedial teaching can counteract difficulties beforehand. Remedial teaching should be organised according to a plan and as often as is necessary. Remedial education (also known as developmental education, basic skills education, compensatory education, preparatory education and academic upgrading) is assigned to assist students in order to achieve expected competencies in core academic skills such as literacy and numeracy.

The word "remedial", by both print and web definition, means "to rectify, improve or remedy something." ~~which~~ so it should be in the remedial teaching arena.

Remedial instruction can help struggling learners shore up their basic skills. This extra support can help them catch up to their peers. Sometimes, if a student's gaps in learning aren't related to a disability, it can eliminate the need for referral to special education.

Objectives of Remedial Teaching:-

Each pupil is different in terms of learning ability, academic standards, classroom learning and academic performance, and each has his own in learning. The aim of Remedial Teaching is to provide learning support to pupils who lag far behind their counterparts in school performance.

By adapting school curricula and teaching strategies, teachers can provide learning activities and practical experiences to students according to their abilities and needs. They can also design individualized educational programmes with intensive remedial support to help pupils consolidate their basic knowledge in different subjects, master the learning methods, strengthen their confidence and enhance the effectiveness of learning.

Throughout the learning process, teachers should provide systematic training to develop pupils' generic skills, including interpersonal relationship, communication, to do whatever it is or that it follows the first teaching. If you try a mixture of new steps with the old, it may not be clear enough to help the student.

Remedial teaching must be done in an atmosphere that does not embarrass or punish a student. If the teaching is done in a way that other students see or are aware of it, the student may put up a wall of a resistance right from the start. If the student is kept in for recess or is given extra work to do at home, this, too, can cause that wall to go up.

PRIORITY APPOINTMENTS NOTES

Attention must be given to careful planning of the lesson and the atmosphere.
